Description:

My vision of hope doesn't come from a natural perspective but from a spiritual perspective. What does that mean? It means that in the natural, I see what you see and I hear what you hear. But, In the midst of obscurity, the reports of death, destruction and even desperation, I can hear a still small voice within me saying "Whose report will you believe?" I believe the report of the Lord. I believe the report of the Lord so much so that my prayer is Lord, make an example out of "Newtowne 20". Raise up the generation within the community that would confound the wise. Lord, allow the scales to fall from obscure eyes so they too can see "A Vision of Hope" I see hope. I see life and I hear the cry of a people. Crying out for a change but just haven't figured out how it will take place and even doubting that it ever will. Hence the question "Can Any Good Come from Newtowne 20?"

The way the author recounts her life experiences is fascinating and her personal commentary is always backed by scripture, so your getting a good read while being spiritually fed. I think the photos couldve been bigger and the content a bit more organized.
